In our organisation anniversaries are common. We find it a strength that our colleagues stay employed for many years. Our colleagues say they choose to stay in the organisation because they feel free in their job and their curiosity and initiative is rewarded. We are pleased to be a company with many different professional groups, which when combined create a synergy and allow individuals to put their personal imprint on the organisation. It is of value that we preserve the curiosity and professional ambitions throughout our career. The values and competences of our employees are also those of the organisation, and this we are proud of:
